Title: Malabelle-A Biography

Author: Hands of Virtue

A skilled mage and apprentice of Minax, Malabelle has been seen in the past leading armies of lizardmen and ratmen against Britannia. She was also seen helping Juo'Nar in his quest to capture the city of honor, Trinsic. She was tricked by Minax in believing that her lover, Tyball, was killed by Lord British, and is now full of hate against Britannia.

Unfortunately, this was not the case, and the Britannian Librian Joye, had information that proved this to be false. As later we discover, Tyball was in fact being held prisoner to lend a hand in the manipulation of this very skilled mage.

Learning of this deception, Malabelle attempted to assist the citizens of Britannia, but Juo'Nar learned of her plans, and captured her before she could provide any assistance. Dupre led a rescue party to free her, retrieving a moon key, that enabled him to unlock the black temples that ultimately led to the defeat of Juo'Nar. In exchange, Dupre promised to free Tyball from Minax's clutches, however, this was a charge he failed to keep. Unfortunately Malabelle is a personality ruled by the heart, and not with the logical mind, often times being hasty and rash. Malabelle's whereabouts where unknown for a long time, and this author seriously doubts she has ever truly forgiven the broken promise made by Dupre'.

Malabllles Corpse was found in a shack
by the Sea.

May she rest in Peace
